

You can't spell mining without N

When you need a brush, ask for the “N”

In the mining industry, you need a brush you can depend on day in, day out. That's why you should always look for the “N”. With more than fifty years of experience, National® designs quality carbon brushes, in numerous grades, that have become the industry standard for durability and consistent performance.

Our experience in the mining industry has enabled us to provide the most comprehensive line of brushes to meet thousands of industrial applications—basically, anywhere there are motors. National carbon brushes are reliable, field-proven and available direct from the factory or from authorized dealers.

We have even made it easy for you to determine if you are using National by stamping the National “N” on all of our brushes. If you don't see the “N,” you are not getting the performance you should.
